AUGUST 3, 2010 TUESDAY 12:00 P.M. VOL. 71 NO. 44

THIS TUESDAY

Ann Marie Piersol from Security Design Systems will give us an update on the latest in security. I have used SDS for over 2 years now for my alarm system. After $12,000 in glass tagging about 3 weeks ago I am now the proud owner of 4 surveillance cameras. Heads-up to future Program Chairs: The owner, Joe Petrillo has an interesting program on profiling criminals.

LAST TUESDAY

Our speaker was Mike Kniest who is retired from LA County Fire Dept. after 34 years. His hobbies are vintage cars and aviation history. Mike had one of his vintage Ford's at our Barbecue.

Henry Ford showed an early interest in mechanics. By the time he was 12, he was spending most of his spare time in a small machine shop he had equipped. There, at age 15, he constructed his first steam engine.

Mr. Ford's career as a builder of automobiles dated from 1893 when his interest in internal combustion engines led him to construct a small one-cylinder gasoline model. The first Ford engine sputtered its way to life on a table in the kitchen of the Ford home in Detroit. A later version of that engine powered his first automobile in 1896.

Mr. Ford founded Ford Motor Company on June 16, 1903 - just months before the Wright brothers completed the first powered flight.

Henry Ford is best known as a mass-manufacturer of automobiles. However, it was Mr. Ford who put the nation on wheels, giving the "motor car" idea practicability when he developed the means to mass-produce and sell it at a price within the means of the average worker.

Henry Ford did much the same thing with aviation. Like the early automobiles, the early airplanes found little public acceptance. It was Henry Ford who pioneered the successful adaptation of the basic concept of the airplane and brought aviation and its advantages within the reach of the average citizen. It was his efforts in developing suitable aircraft to serve the public, then building public confidence in their reliability, safety and necessity that put the nation on wings.

Henry Ford's first involvement in aviation came in 1909, just six years after the Wright brothers' first powered flight, when he helped his son Edsel and friends build a primitive monoplane powered by a Ford Model T engine.

In 1923, Edsel Ford invested in the Stout Metal Airplane Company, which built the "Air Pullman," the world's first all-metal, single-engine high cantilever wing monoplane. From this start, with additional help from Ford Motor Company, the all-metal Stout 2-AT "Air Transport" plane was developed. With it, Ford in 1925 initiated Ford Air Transport Service - the world's first regularly scheduled commercial airline devoted to the business needs of a single company.

OTHER NEWS

Doug Sears returned from a two week trip. Harmony Miller accompanied her mother Peggy Sue. Ben Ashkinos is still recovering from a fall at the Barbecue. Bill Hohl still needs to be picked up from the Barbecue. Ronald McDonald Meals next week. Chuck Souder is still recovering at his time share in Baldwin Park until further notice.

Board meeting Tuesday evening at 5:30. National Night Out in the Park sane day.
